THE SECOND INDEX TO BOOK-PRICES CURRENT.
VOLUMES XI. TO XX.

FOR THE YEARS 1897 TO 1906.

This Work, which will be uniform with the first Index to Vols. 1 to 10 of the Work, will present a key to the second ten years, viz., 1897 to 1906. By grouping the results of all the Sales of each Volume, it presents, at a glance, all the variations in price which any Work has been subject to during this decade. The use of the Work to Booksellers, Collectors, and Bibliographers is invaluable; indeed, no possessor of Book-Prices Current can dispense with the Index if he wishes to save the time and trouble of hunting through ten volumes for the price he is in search of.

Among the improvements in this Volume may be mentioned a very great increase in the total number of entries; anonyms and pseudonyms, in hundreds of entries, are attached to the real names of the Authors; the names of Editors and Translators are invariably indexed; to every entry, except in a few cases where the year cannot be ascertained, the date of publication is appended; in numerous cases, where the illustrations impart a special market value, the Artist's Name is indexed also. A valuable sub-Alphabet under Americana is also given.

Subscribers' names should be sent in to the Publisher in advance to avoid disappointment.

THE INDEX TO THE FIRST TEN VOLUMES OF BOOK-PRICES CURRENT (1887 to 1896):

Constituting a Reference List of Subjects and, incidentally, a Key to Anonymous and Pseudonymous Literature.

"If money, as Anthony Trollope neatly put it, be the reward of labour, too much is certainly not asked for the labour which has 'marshalled into order a manuscript involving 33,000 distinct titles and considerably over 500,000 numerals.' The typographical arrangement of the volume will receive praise from those who can understand the difficulties of the printers' task."—The Guardian.

INTRODUCTION.

A REFERENCE to the "Table of Contents" in this present volume of BOOK-PRICES CURRENT will disclose the fact that the average for the season 1905-6 amounts to £2 11s. 3d., that being the amount realised for each of the 37,414 lots comprised in the sales which it has been thought necessary to report, assuming, of course, that the total amount realised (£95,829) were evenly distributed. This system of striking an average, and in that way shewing the comparative importance of each season's book sales, practically commenced in 1893, when the figures stood at £1 6s. 7d., and has continued to the present time, the table standing as follows:—

1893 ..	£1 6 7	1900 ..	£2 6 2
1894 ..	£1 8 5	1901 ..	£3 7 10
1895 ..	£1 11 4	1902 ..	£3 3 4
1896 ..	£1 13 10	1903 ..	£3 2 10
1897 ..	£2 13 9	1904 ..	£2 9 3
1898 ..	£2 15 0	1905 ..	£2 17 2
1899 ..	£2 19 5	1906 ..	£2 11 3

It may be said that very little difference is observable in the general prices of books during the last two seasons, the higher figure for 1905 being accounted for by the fact that an unusual number of extremely scarce and valuable books were offered for sale as reported in the Nineteenth Volume of BOOK-PRICES CURRENT. A list of them will be found in the Introduction to that volume; and I now give similar tables, commencing, as before, with Shakespeariana, all in 4to, unless otherwise mentioned. The list during the season 1905-6 is as under:—

Many other entries relating to Shakespeariana will be found in the following pages. One copy of the first folio appeared for sale during the season, four copies of the second, one of the third, and seven of the fourth, as well as two copies of the 'Poems' of 1640, and many specially printed Lyceum Plays and Plays as altered by Dryden and Kean. These will all be found indexed in their proper places, but being for the most part imperfect or comparatively unimportant by reason of circumstances, it is not necessary to dwell upon them now. Among the other Books offered for sale during the season the following are worthy of special mention. All were in 4to, except when otherwise mentioned.

In addition, seventeen other works realised £100 or over, while many more are credited with very substantial amounts, though on the whole it cannot be said that these high-priced books are as numerous as they have been on recent occasions.

In one respect the most important sale of the season was that held by Messrs. Sotheby on May 7th and following days, when the late Mr. Truman's fine collection of works illustrated by George Cruikshank, was brought to the hammer. The collection was also rich in caricatures and other prints attributed to the same artist, and, speaking of it as a whole, it may be said with every confidence that such an important and extensive accumulation can hardly be seen again. In very many instances Cruikshank had verified illustrations by initialing them, or had rejected them altogether as not being by him, so that this collection was as authoritative as it was possible to make it. The next best collection of the kind was that formed by Mr. H. W. Bruton, and sold, also at Sotheby's, in June, 1897. Mr. Bruton prepared the Truman catalogue, itself an excellent memorial, and one which will no doubt prove not merely interesting to collectors of Cruikshank's works, but useful as well.

Another important feature of the season's sales was the collection of 17 pre-Shakespearian plays, sold on June 30th. Some of these realised large amounts, as mentioned above, and it is worthy of congratulation that a few of them, at any rate, yet remain in this country. Two are known to have gone to the United States, but the British Museum acquired several, and private collectors in this country one or two. English plays of the 16th century are, of course, extremely scarce and correspondingly valuable, and to find so many in the possession of a single owner is a circumstance which can only be described as highly exceptional.

Leech, £20 10s.

[From the Heber Library, a rare collection of "the Boke of Barthā" (The Book of Bertram). There is no copy of the edition of 1549 in the British Museum, but only that of 1624. The little volume (24 leaves of text, including title) was evidently very popular, as no less than six editions are recorded by Lowndes up to 1624. The 1623 edition was also reprinted with additions in 1686. The second "Treatise," of 44 leaves, including the title-page, by John Calvin, was printed abroad, and is the excessively rare editio princeps, before Coverdale's name was introduced on the title-page. The portion by Miles Coverdale commences on D6 (verso). The "Faule of the Romyshe Churche" comprises A—C in eights, with the original blank leaf C.8; only very few copies are known. This little volumie was printed secretly in England after the assumption by Henry VIII. of the title of Head of the Church. The Askew tract: The "fyrst" and "latter" "examinacion" is not only the original and professedly personal account by Anne Askew of her trials on account of her religious opinions, but is a distinct and apparently earlier impression than that in the Huth Library, which is said to be unknown to bibliographers. Finally, of the little tract, "Sum of the Actes," etc., the only other copies known are in the British Museum and at the Lambeth Palace Library.—Catalogue.]

- 1681 Chatterton (Thomas). An original Holograph Manuscript, 12½ pages 4to., half morocco (140) Healey, £255

[This manuscript is evidently the first draft of Chatterton's masterpiece, "Ælla," the name of the principal character in the present manuscript being "Eldred," which Chatterton afterwards altered to "Ælla." The arrangement of the dialogue is in many respects altered in the work as published, but it will be found on comparison that much of it is in almost the same words as in those of this original draft. The "Dialogue Song" between a shepherd and shepherdess found in the manuscript, although exactly similar in idea to the printed "Mynstrelles Song bie a Manne and Womanne," differs very considerably both in words and orthography. The spelling throughout this manuscript is of Chatterton's period, and it was undoubtedly an afterthought of his to utilise the orthography of the period of the supposed Thomas Rowley in the enlarged published "Ælla, a Tragical Enterlude."—Catalogue.]

[This copy of the "Battle-Door" contains the full collation of 57 sheets on 114 leaves as given by Hazlitt and Joseph Smith, and agrees with the copy in the Grenville Library, British Museum. On the verso of the last leaf is pasted a very rare additional slip, signed "G. F." relating to the Pope's pride in using "You to one." This is evidently the original impression. Inserted before the title-page of the "Battle-Door" is a printed copy of a letter from John Stubs to "Deare George Fox," written presumably in 1660 or 1661, relating to the publication of the book, and in which he mentions that it contains 57 sheets. War Office, £5

[The first mentioned volume is of great interest, not only as having formed a contribution to the controversy which produced—according to Professor Oman—"the first considerable instalment of technical military writing in the English language," but also because it incurred the displeasure of Queen Elizabeth, who directed "that all copies of the book be called in, both because they be printed without privilege and that they may breed much question and quarrell." Interesting early MS. note on the fly-leaf respecting the life and ancestry of Sir John Smythe, and the name "John Verney" in the same hand on title.—Catalogue.]

 [The above four volumes contain matters of the utmost interest relating to the military operations during the American War of Independence. The first volume is headed "Extracts of Orders given to the British Army in America," the entries being dated from "Head Quarters, New York" (commencing June 10, 1773), Salem and Boston Camp. The second is a similar volume, and is headed "Extracts of Orders given by the different British General Officers on Rhode Island, North America, from the time of taking possession of it in December, 1776, to the final Evacuation of it in October, 1779," though apparently the transcript of orders was not carried further than January, 1778. Vol. iii. is lettered "Returns, etc., America, 1775-1783." The following are a few of the more interesting headings:—"State of the following Corps of His Majesty's Forces under the Command of the Honble. Major-Genl. Wm. The fourth and most important volume is lettered "Capitulations, 1775 to 1783," and contains a list of contents, though entries at the end of the volume are not indexed. On page 17 are full particulars of the negotiations which resulted in the surrender of General Burgoyne's army—numbering over 5,000 men—to Major-General Gates at Saratoga on October 17th, 1777. The Articles of Capitulation, to be found on page 65, et seq., set out the terms of the surrender of Earl Cornwallis and his army of about 4,000 men to General Washington at York-town on October 19th, 1781—an event which practically put an end to the American War.—Catalogue.]

- 4463 Nelson (Admiral Lord). "General Memorandum," in the Autograph of the Famous Admiral, in which he Fore-shadowed the Plan of Attack at Trafalgar, and which he actually Carried Out. "Victory," off Cadiz, 9 Oct., 1805, 8 pages, 4to. (133) Sabin, £3,600 ["Thinking it almost impossible to bring a fleet of 40

sail of the line into a line of Battle, in variable winds, thick weather, and other circumstances which must occur, without such a loss of time, that the opportunity would probably be lost . . . I have therefore made up my mind to keep the fleet in that position of sailing (with the exception of the first and second in command) that the order of sailing is to be the order of battle ; placing the fleet in two lines of 16 ships each, with an advanced squadron of eight of the fastest sailing two-decked ships [which] will always make if wanted a line of 24 sail, on whichever line the Commander-in-Chief may direct. The second in command will, after my intentions are made known to him, have the entire direction of his line, to make the attack upon the enemy, and to follow up the blow until they are captured or destroy'd. If the Enemy's Fleet should be seen to windward in line of battle, and that the two lines and the advancing squadron could fetch them, they will probably be so extended that their van could not succour their rear. I should therefore probably make the 2nd in comm^{ds} signal to lead through about the twelfth ship from their rear (or wherever he could fetch, if not able to get so far advanced). My line would lead through about their centre, and the advanced squadron to cut two, or three, or four ships ahead of their centre ; so as to insure getting at their Commander-in-Chief, whom every effort must be made to capture . . . B[ritish] to be $\frac{1}{4}$ superior to the E[nemy] cut off. Something must be left to chance. Nothing is sure in a sea-fight . . . If the van of the enemy tack, the captured ships must run to leeward of the British fleet ; if the enemy wear, the British must place themselves between the enemy and the captured, and disabled British ships ; and should the enemy close, I have no fear of the result. . . . in case signals can neither be seen or perfectly understood, no captain can do very wrong if he places his ship alongside that of an enemy . . ." etc., etc. The Document contains a rough diagram of the three short British lines, and the single extended line of the enemy. The whole of the Document is in Nelson's handwriting excepting the heading, and has many interesting alterations and deletions. The Memorandum is printed in extenso in "James's Naval History" (Vol. iv., 23-25, Edition 1837), who says "it is universally considered to be a complete masterpiece of its kind."—Catalogue. It is understood that this Memorandum was formerly the property of Admiral Sir George Rodney Mundy, who presented it to the father of the owner—a cab-driver in London. The mystery which at one time surrounded the fate of this historic document seems to have been solved. It is stated that Mr. B. M. Woollan, of Sherwood Park, into whose possession it ultimately came, lent it to the town of Tunbridge Wells, and that it may go eventually to the British Museum. Four copies are known, one of them being at the British Museum. See next lot.—ED.]

(271)* Soheran, £77

[An incomplete set (should be 68 vol.) of these publications, which form as a whole a regimental history of the British Army from the seventeenth to the nineteenth century, formerly the property of the late Richard Cannon, and containing in several volumes his MS. corrections. All are picked copies, which fact also is apparent from the brilliance and freshness of the plates—a remark which applies almost equally to the duplicate volumes below. It may be added that in three or four cases there are plates in the volumes which appear to be extra, and are not noted on the list of plates, and in the volume of the "2nd Foot Regiment" there are two original drawings of the colours, painted on vellum and heightened with gold. The "3rd Light Dragoons" has the appendix with an additional plate, issued later, and the "14th Foot Regiment" has four pages of corrected appendix inserted. The morocco bindings are in different colours—crimson, blue, green, yellow and brown—as bright as when issued. In the case of the Highland Regiments the tartan plaids of the regiment are used as end-papers. The set comprises 26 Regiments of Cavalry and 41 Regiments of Infantry. In this connection it will be remembered that the set from the Royal Military College Library, sold in these rooms last December, contained 68 vol.—26 Cavalry and 42 Infantry.—Catalogue. See ante No. 2226. A large number of duplicate volumes were afterwards sold (Lots 272-301), also a collection of the original water-colours by W. Heath, J. M. Jopling and others, which were used to illustrate the work, the drawings of regimental colours, coats-of-arms and stars being mostly on vellum. These, with several autograph letters and an original MS., signed "Victoria R.," realised £70 (Sotheby, Lot 302).—ED.]

Cruikshank.” Mr. Truman has inserted an interesting note as to this portrait. He states that Cruikshank told him he engraved a plate with “The Blasphemer” beneath it, so that in the event of Hone being convicted it might be sold for the benefit of his wife and children, who would have been destitute, but he (G.
